How It Works Section (H2)

How the Rudraksha Calculator Works

It's simple — and rooted in real Vedic astrology:

- Step 1: Enter your date, time, and place of birth
- Step 2: The calculator finds your Moon sign (rashi), Nakshatra, and key planetary positions
- Step 3: Based on which planet needs strengthening or pacifying in your chart, it recommends the Mukhi ruled by that planet's deity
- Step 4: You get your lucky Rudraksha instantly — with a direct link to the authentic, energised bead

About Section (H2)

Why the Right Rudraksha Matters

Every Rudraksha Mukhi is governed by a specific deity and planet — 1 Mukhi by the Sun, 2 Mukhi by the Moon, 7 Mukhi by Shukra (Venus) and Maa Lakshmi, and so on up to the rarest beads. When you wear the Mukhi that matches your chart, you're strengthening exactly the planetary energy your life needs — career, health, relationships, or peace of mind.

The good news: unlike gemstones, Rudraksha never harms. Even if you wear a Mukhi that isn't your chart's first choice, it remains beneficial — which is why Rudraksha is called the safest remedy in Vedic tradition. But the right Mukhi works noticeably faster and deeper. That's what this calculator finds for you.

For major decisions — like high-value beads (1 Mukhi, Gauri Shankar, higher Mukhis) — we always recommend a personal consultation with Rohit Sharma, where your full birth chart is analysed in detail.

FAQ Section (H2)

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Is this Rudraksha calculator really free? Ans: Yes, completely free. Enter your birth details and get your recommendation instantly — no payment, no signup.

Q: What if I don't know my exact birth time? Ans: You can still use the calculator — select "Don't know exact time." The recommendation will be based on your birth date's Moon position, which is accurate for most cases. For precision, consult Rohit Sharma.

Q: Can anyone wear Rudraksha? Ans: Yes. Rudraksha requires no horoscope matching and is safe for men, women, and children of all ages. The calculator simply finds the Mukhi that will benefit you the most.

Q: Can I wear more than one Mukhi together? Ans: Yes, many Mukhis combine beautifully — that's the principle behind Kavach combinations and the Siddha Mala. The calculator gives your primary bead; a consultation can design your full combination.

How It Works Section (H2)

How the Gemstone Calculator Works

- Step 1: Enter your date, time, and place of birth
- Step 2: The calculator determines your Lagna (ascendant), Moon sign, and planetary positions
- Step 3: It identifies which benefic planet in your chart should be strengthened
- Step 4: You receive your recommended gemstone — with the correct finger, metal, and day to wear it

About Section (H2)

Why You Should Never Guess Your Gemstone

Gemstones are not like Rudraksha — they are concentrated planetary energy, and they must match your chart. Yellow Sapphire strengthens Jupiter, Blue Sapphire channels Saturn, Ruby carries the Sun's fire. Worn correctly, a gemstone becomes your lifelong ally. Worn incorrectly — especially strong stones like Neelam — it can amplify the wrong planetary influence.

This is why wearing a gemstone just because of your zodiac sign, or because it "looks lucky," is risky. The proper method is chart analysis: finding which planet is benefic for your ascendant and currently needs support. That's exactly what this calculator does, using the same principles Rohit Sharma applies in personal consultations.

Use the calculator as your starting point. For final confirmation — especially before investing in a precious stone — a personal consultation analyses your complete chart, current dashas, and the exact carat weight you need.

FAQ Section (H2)

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Which gemstone should I wear according to my date of birth? Ans: It depends on your complete birth chart — your ascendant, Moon sign, and planetary positions — not just your birth date. This free calculator analyses all of these to give you an accurate recommendation.

Q: Can I wear a gemstone without consulting anyone? Ans: Gentle stones (Amethyst, Citrine, Opal) are generally safe. But strong stones like Blue Sapphire, Gomed, and Cat's Eye should never be worn without proper chart analysis. When in doubt, consult.

Q: What carat weight should my gemstone be? Ans: The traditional guideline is based on body weight and the planet's strength in your chart — commonly 1 ratti per 10-12 kg of body weight. Your consultation will confirm the exact weight. (Use our Carat to Ratti Calculator to convert weights.)

Q: Do gemstones really work? Ans: In Vedic tradition, gemstones have been trusted for thousands of years to channel planetary energies. Results are associated with correct selection, quality, and proper wearing method — which is why authenticity and chart matching matter so much.

How It Works Section (H2)

How the Bracelet Calculator Works

- Step 1: Enter your date of birth — this gives us your zodiac sign and its natural energies
- Step 2: Tell us what you're seeking right now — wealth, love, protection, peace, or confidence
- Step 3: The calculator matches your sign's energy with your goal
- Step 4: Get your perfect bracelet instantly — the crystal that supports both who you are and where you're going

About Section (H2)

Why Matching Matters — Even for Bracelets

Here's the beautiful thing about crystal bracelets: unlike gemstones, they're safe for everyone — no horoscope matching required. So why use a calculator at all?

Because safe and optimal are different things. A Pyrite bracelet helps anyone attract wealth — but if you're a sensitive Cancer overwhelmed by stress, what your life needs first might be Moonstone's calm, not more fire. A Tiger Eye bracelet builds anyone's courage — but a fiery Aries might benefit more from a stone that grounds their existing fire than one that adds to it.

This calculator considers both sides: your zodiac sign's natural temperament and your current goal. The result is a bracelet that doesn't just work — it works for you. And if your situation is complex, a consultation with Rohit Sharma can design a personalised combination.

FAQ Section (H2)

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Is this bracelet calculator free? Ans: Yes, 100% free — answer the questions and get your match instantly.

Q: Can I wear more than one crystal bracelet at a time? Ans: Yes, most crystals combine well. Popular pairings include Pyrite + Citrine for wealth, or Rose Quartz + Amethyst for emotional peace. Avoid combining too many high-energy stones at once.

Q: Do I need my birth time for this calculator? Ans: No — just your date of birth. Crystal bracelets work on zodiac energy and intention, which don't require exact birth time.

Q: What if I want a bracelet for someone else? Ans: Enter their birth date and the goal you'd like the gift to support — the calculator works perfectly for gifting.

About Section (H2)

Carat vs Ratti — What's the Difference?

Carat is the international standard for weighing gemstones — 1 carat equals exactly 200 milligrams. It's what you'll see on lab certificates and most product listings.

Ratti is the traditional Indian unit, used for centuries in Vedic astrology. Historically it was based on the weight of the ratti seed (Gunja), which is why you may hear of slightly different values. Today, the standard "pakki ratti" used across the gemstone trade equals 0.91 carat (182.25 mg) — and that's the standard this calculator uses.

Why does it matter? Because astrological recommendations are almost always given in ratti ("wear a 6 ratti Neelam"), while gemstones are sold in carats. Getting the conversion wrong means wearing a stone lighter than prescribed — which may reduce its astrological effect — or paying for more weight than you need. One quick conversion protects both your remedy and your budget.

A traditional tip: when in doubt between two available weights, astrologers generally suggest going slightly above the prescribed ratti, never below. And for confirmation of your exact prescribed weight, a consultation with Rohit Sharma will settle it precisely.

FAQ Section (H2)

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How many carats is 1 ratti? Ans: 1 ratti = 0.91 carat (182.25 milligrams), as per the standard pakki ratti used in the gemstone trade.

Q: How many ratti is 5 carats? Ans: 5 carats ≈ 5.49 ratti. Divide any carat weight by 0.91 to get ratti.

Q: Why do some jewellers use a different ratti value? Ans: The traditional "kachi ratti" (based on the actual Gunja seed, ~121 mg) differs from the standardised "pakki ratti" (182.25 mg). Reputable gemstone sellers, including us, use the pakki ratti standard. Always confirm which standard is being used before buying.

Q: How much ratti gemstone should I wear? Ans: The common guideline is about 1 ratti per 10–12 kg of body weight, adjusted for the planet's strength in your chart. For your exact prescribed weight, consult Rohit Sharma.
